What is the National Resource Directory?

The National Resource Directory (https://www.ebenefits.va.gov/ebenefits/nrd) is a federal government website that connects wounded warriors, Service Members, Veterans, families and caregivers to thousands of services and programs at the national, state and local levels to support them during recovery, rehabilitation and reintegration. Visitors to the site can find information on topics such as post-traumatic stress disorder, military and Veterans' benefits, health care, educational opportunities, homeless assistance, employment and more.

Who operates the National Resource Directory?

The National Resource Directory (NRD) is a tri-agency initiative among the Departments of Defense, Labor and Veterans Affairs.
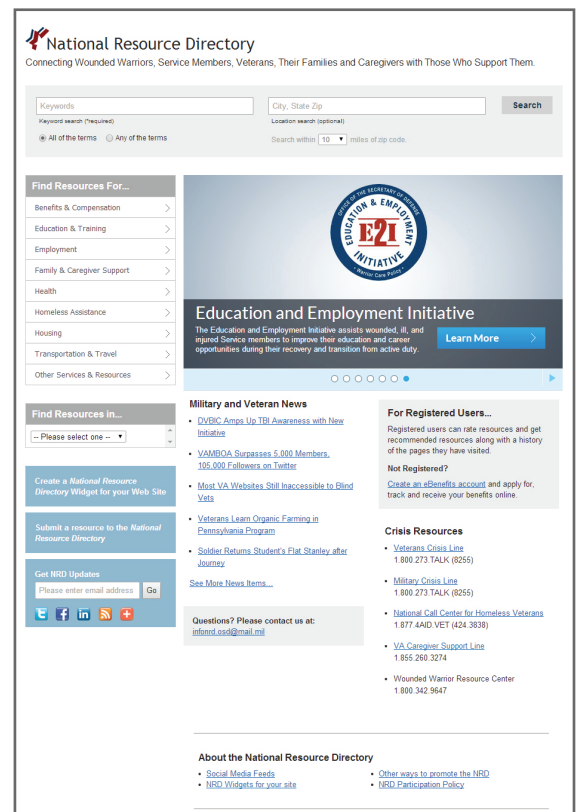

It contains information from federal, state and local government agencies; Veterans service organizations; non-profit, faith-based and community organizations; academic institutions, and professional associations that provide services and assistance to support the military and Veteran communities.

Why was the National Resource Directory created?

The NRD was created as a result of an increased focus within the federal government to improve wounded warrior, Veteran and family care coordination and centralize access to information on related services.

It provides a central place online where wounded warriors, Service Members, Veterans, families and caregivers can obtain comprehensive and up-to-date information about the services and programs available to help them, both nationally and in the communities where they live and work.

As a critical part of this commitment, the NRD is continuously adapting and seeking the most current and highest quality resources available to support those who have served.

The NRD offers information on:

- Benefits & Compensation
- Education & Training
- Employment
- Family & Caregiver Support
- Health
- Homeless Assistance
